Heritage Day at the Dairy Museum

On Saturday 3 October we supplied our German Wagon for the huge day of the Dairy Museum calendar.

Most of the Dairy Museum volunteers were dressed in period costume, some serving damper and billy tea. John Armstrong (MMS) cooked six dampers to perfection for the ladies to sell. Oriel Black ran a tight ship in the kitchen and Linda Steel mixed the ingredients for our dampers.

My chest swelled with pride when the wagon arrived and took pride of place on display.

The sign and display board of photographs was very impressive and I received many enquiries from men wanting to join our shed to get involved with the construction of our next project. I believe this will be an annual event for us as we will be asked to supply our restored wagons, sulky's and buck board for display.

It is ironical that two years before we formed our Murgon Men's Shed, the offer to form the shed on sight with the Dairy Museum was rejected by the committee. (Kathy Duff and President Richard O'Neil were in favour) The MMS is only too happy to have our projects displayed at their museum.

It is with great pride I congratulate all who were involved with the construction of our wonderful wagon. Also, thank you John for the great tasting dampers you cooked. Maybe next year we may have some period costumes to wear to get into the swing of things.

The Museum should be congratulated for a very successful day.

Dave Mollenhauer

David has been feature member before, but I must mention the good deeds and extra work, above and beyond, that he carries out without a complaint.

All the pumpkins and custard apples didn't just turn up, they were picked and loaded up into and out of the vehicle for us to gorge.

The German Wagon turned up at the museum thanks to David. He just happened to organise the trailer to pick it up, then be there to do whatever had to be done.

There are numerous happenings that wouldn't have happened without him.

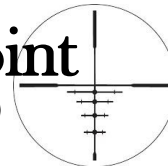

Thanks to a dedicated member Dave Mollenhauer.

I have a habit of saying, 'Live for a cause bigger than yourself'. Why? Because only considering our own interests and concerns is like a salt lake that eventually chokes all that is good within it.

As tough as it may be at times, go out of your way to do something nice for someone else, simply because you can, and take notice of the difference it makes within you.

Where's Julian?

People have been asking me, "What has happened to Julian?" He is usually seen walking around town three times a day doing his daily exercise and his absence has been noted.

Julian will be away for at least three months. He has been transferred to St Gregory's College at Campbell town.

This is a college for elderly Brothers and Julian is looking after the community until at least January next year.

Enjoy your stay at St Gregory's and we look forward to your return.

Drinking Water for our Four Legged Animals

As you are all aware we have applied to Queensland Rail for two out of date rail carriages to be placed on the disused rail tracks in front of the station platform.

The vision of having one as a coffee stop for the rail trail users and the other will be a rail museum with memorabilia around the walls. It will be opened on shed days.

Horses will be able to go one way only, from Murgon to Kilkivan and back because of the tick line. Murgon will be the start or finish for the horse trail.

Quick thinking men decided these horses will get thirsty and want a drink. "Have you seen the trough?" Perfect for the occasion, situated next to the tank which is near the windmill, couldn't be better.

There will be parking for horse floats as well. How good is this feeling? Exciting isn't it?

Has anyone noticed the flower garden around the flag pole?

The flowers are being tenderly looked after by Dave McKenna. I do not know what he puts in the water but the plants are jumping out of the ground.

Keep up the good work Dave.
